b. Important Local News

October 2007

Fire Inspectors Loafing: Our investigation finds a city fire inspector getting her nails done on city time, and spending afternoons at home while she's on the clock. In response, Chicago's Fire Department implements a program requiring all inspectors to carry GPS tracking devices. Eventually, the Department takes disciplinary action against five inspectors and supervisors because of our investigation.

Dream Act: There are more than 20,000 undocumented children in Chicago who arrived here at a young age with their parents. Now as teenagers, they're hearing the calls to go back where they were born. We examined the debate over what to do with illegal immigrants' teens who know no other home.

X-Box: Who's talking trash to your children? We found children who are playing on-line games are being subjected to racial slurs and anti-semitic comments.

Oct. 31, 2007. A Fox Investigation examined the controversial "Big Pipe" project which will draw billions of gallons of water from Lake Michigan and return the water to the lake, warmer than before.

September 2007

Sept. 24, 2007. A Fox Investigation revealed that teachers are regularly hired here without their names being checked against a confidential statewide listing suspected child abusers.

Sept. 11, 2007. A Fox Investigation revealed that confidential security reports showing the vulnerabilities of Chicago's transit systems to terrorist attacks could be found online, using file sharing software.

Sept. 6, 2007. Our investigative team uncovered potential new evidence regarding the unsolved hit-and-run death of a Chicago man.

August 2007

Dual Employment: We uncovered a sweet-heart deal for Cook County physicians. Doctors are allowed to work a 20-hour week yet get full-time pay and benefits. The taxpayers are paying for a full-time doctor, but they get only half the service. The doctors are free to take another job in the private sector.

Bridge Collapse: After the collapse of the bridge in Minnesota, we obtained the grade and rank of Illinois bridges. We found several bridges had the same or lower grade than the one in Minnesota.

August 13, 2007. A Fox Investigation revealed that Illinois taxpayers are losing millions of dollars every year because of unscrupulous employers who misclassify their workers as independent contractors instead of company employees.

August 6, 2007. Should a suburban police officer be doubling as a debt collector? A Fox Investigation reveals questions about alleged "collection" activities by police.

July 2007

July 10, 2007. The Fox Investigative team uncovers videotapes that support allegations that Chicago police may have beaten several patrons at a bar called the Jefferson Tap.

July 9, 2007.. The Fox Investigative team examines the growing controversy over the use of wind power in Western Illinois.

Core: When we asked a grass-root organization why it was supporting a hike in the electric rates, their answers didn't add up. When we investigated the leaders of the organization, we found they were a front for the electric company.

June 26, 2007. Fox News Chicago exposes allegations that promotions in the Chicago police department are based upon clout and connections, rather than merit.

June 11, 2007. Communities in Illinois are plagued by "fly dumpers," who show up in the middle of the night and illegally dump waste, without paying fees or environmental safeguards. A Fox Investigation shows how they do it, and where it's become a major headache.

May 2007

Nightclub safety: After a pro-football player's friend is gunned down at a Chicago night club, we combed through 911 reports to see just how safe you are at some of the city's hottest nightlife spots.

Front Over Accidents: You've heard of "back over" accidents; where the blind spot on the back of a vehicle is so big that the driver does not see a small child standing behind it. Fox News Chicago found the same type of "blind spot" can exist in front of certain vehicle as well

County Provident Delays: With severe cuts in the Cook County Budget, the health care system was impacted significantly. Uninsured patients must now wait years to receive critical care.

April 2007

Unapproved Drugs: Our investigation found doctors and pharmacists were unknowingly prescribing medicines that had not been approved by the FDA.

Sex Offenders working as election judges: Acting on a tip, Fox News Chicago identified a sex offender working as an election judge at a polling place located in a grade school. Following our investigation, local prosecutors and election officials identified eight other sex offenders working as election judges.

Internet Insecurity: Peer to Peer file sharing programs, like Lime Wire, are great for sharing movies and music. Our investigative team found they can also be used to share some of your most personal information and national security secrets.

April 16, 2007. Identity theft is usually associated with the loss of credit card information by large retailers. But this Fox Investigation reveals that most identity theft cases arise from the use of credit card in small establishments, like neighborhood restaurants.

March 2007

Bartender Beating: Fox News Chicago discovered surveillance video so shocking that after we aired it, police and city officials had no choice but to change how the police are policed in Chicago. We discovered exclusive footage of an off duty officer beating a woman bartender. Our news team investigated the circumstances of the beating. We found an apparent lack of appropriate police department response at the time of the incident, and during the investigation of the officer. We also revealed how other city employees allegedly tried to cover up the crime.

HPV Vaccine: The lead researcher who conducted the safety tests for the HPV vaccine spoke out against the campaign by Merck to vaccinate all young girls. While she believes in the vaccine she claims the ad is misleading and leaving parents with a false sense of security.

County Project Shield: Homeland Security gave Cook County nearly 30 million dollars for an elaborate camera system to link police vehicles with headquarters. Our investigation found that two years later, most of the towns never received the equipment and those that had were not able to use the equipment.

February 2007

Viaduct accidents: Traffic signs with erroneous information may be lengthening your trip to work. More often than not, Chicago commuters have a longer trip to work because of semi-trucks getting stuck under viaducts. That's despite a traffic sign saying the viaduct is high enough for them to drive underneath. We looked at why this is happening.

Sex Offenders/Jobs: Your child may be within a sex offender's reach and you may not know it. That's because Illinois law requires that sex offenders tell the state where they are living once they are released from prison but not where they are working. While the state does know where some sex offenders are working, they are not required to make that information available to the public - unless you ask for it. We found out where dozens of sex offenders are working in the Chicago area after filing a Freedom of Information request with the Illinois State police. Their places of employment included: Rainforest Cafe, Wrigley Field, the Chicago Symphony and several big name hotel and fast food restaurants.

County Dentists: While the County considered abolishing its dental clinics for the uninsured, we found it failed to bill more than a million and half dollars that could have kept the clinic open. After our investigation, the clinics were re-opened.

County Overtime: Our investigation uncovered massive overtime bills by the County's pharmacists. Many doubled and even tripled their salaries. One individual's overtime salary was so excessive, she would have had to work 15 hours a day 7 days a week for an entire year. The County launched an investigation after our report.

January 2007

January 22, 2007. A Fox Investigation uncovers convicted sex offenders working at establishments where they have easy access to youngsters, and leads several major companies to terminate the employment of those sex offenders.

December 2006

Paper shredder injuries follow up: We talk to an office supply company who may have a possible solution to prevent this type of injury.

Dec. 26, 2006. A Fox Investigation reveals allegations that the Illinois Secretary of State is not doing enough to protect against identity theft for drivers' license applicants.

November 2006

Paper shredder injuries follow up: We were the first to report on several nationwide cases of children whose hands were injured in their parents' paper shredders at home, shredding mechanism and various shredder models to see how this could happen. Now, more victims are coming forward.

Credit Card Dumping: We examine how your bank account information is being bought and sold on the internet without your knowledge. We take a look at who's using it, how credit card dumping affects your finances and how it can lead to identity theft. The night this story aired, we had a group of U S Secret Service agents in our news room answer viewer questions via the web.

MySpace/ sexual predators: We identified several Illinois sex offenders who have MySpace accounts and may be chatting with your children. The night this story aired, we had several members of the Illinois Attorney General's Internet Crimes against Children task force in the news room to answer viewer questions online.

Nov. 29, 2006. A Fox investigation reveals allegations that jewelry dealers in the Chicago area are misleading diamond buyers with phony certificates regarding the jewel's quality.

Nov. 22, 2006. A Fox investigation examines the "traveling salesmen" who visit the Chicago area, offering to buy jewelry and coins, and whether customers get true value for their sales.

Nov. 13-14, 2006. A Fox investigation reveals that the Salvation Army has purchased several high-priced homes for its top officials, allowing them to live in the homes rent-free and tax free.

October 2006

October 25, 2006. A Fox investigation raises questions about the honesty of some condominium salesmen, and whether they are misleading their customers about the size of the condos they are buying.

September 2006

More Priceline Locksmith folo: Now the state dept of professional licensing and regulation files charges against this same company, following our investigation.

July 2006

July 3, 2006. A Fox investigation shows how Illinois residents avoid the fireworks ban every year by purchasing fireworks in Indiana and then crossing the border back into Illinois.

June 2006

June 30, 2006..The Fox Investigative team examines the dangers associated with barbecue grills, or cooking over campfires, without proper safety measures.

May 2006

May 3, 2006. A Fox investigation shows how a local florist is misleading customers with yellow-page phone numbers that result in flowers getting shipped from thousands of miles away, instead of local florists.

April 2006

April 14, 2006..The Fox Investigative team examines the growing heroin problem in Chicago's Northwest suburbs.

March 2006

Priceline Locksmith folo: In response to our investigation of a locksmith scam, Chicago's Consumer Affairs department files charges against the company not once - but twice. Consumers who thought they were calling a local locksmith were not doing so. When we checked the addresses in the phone book for this business, we didn't find a locksmith at any of them. Instead we found a pizza parlor, nail salon and tequila lounge. The local phone calls were transferred to a New York City phone number. Consumers not only complained of receiving poor service but of being overcharged as well.

February 2006

Handicap Parking: Following up on a viewer tip, Fox News Chicago catches non-disabled Blue Cross- Blue Shield Insurance workers using handicap parking placards to find good street parking outside their downtown office building. We show them hanging up the placard in their car and walking in to the building on their own.

Car title loans: Consumer experts say it's the new pay day loan scam. If you need cash now, use your car title to take a loan in minutes. The catch is you have to pay it back at a very high interest rate and a balloon payment. We show you the pros and cons of this type of loan.

January 2006

January 23, 2006. A Fox investigation shows how a convicted sex offender crossed state lines and moved into a college dormitory, without detection.

December 2005

Dec. 1, 2005...A Fox Investigation found that seventeen sex offenders supposedly living at a home on Chicago's south side had "vanished" without providing new addresses, in violation of the law. Law enforcement authorities began a search to locate all of them.

Dec. 5, 2005...In response to a Fox News Investigation, the Chicago City Council passed new penalties for drivers who abuse disability parking privileges.

Dec. 20, 2005...In the wake of the murder of a judge's husband by a mentally disturbed litigant, our Fox Legal Analyst Larry Yellen reveals the creation of a new "Help Desk" at Chicago's Federal building, to make sure that disturbed individuals get help working their way through the courts.

November 2005

Bleached bills: Fox News Chicago I-team showed the newest way criminals are counterfeiting money and how you can spot it. All it takes is a household cleaner to bleach a five dollar bill bland and a computer laser printer to reprint it as hundred dollar bill.

Balcony injuries: If you think your balcony is safe just because it has a sturdy railing, think again. Fox News Chicago investigated how small children were being seriously injured after crawling through gaps in balcony railings and falling to the ground.

Mortgage Fraud Scam Artist Arrested: A local man is arrested several months after a Fox News Chicago investigation into a mortgage scam. Burnyss Perry is accused of using a south side apartment building to steal one-point four million dollars from mortgage companies. Investigators say Perry misled lenders with false appraisals and phony straw purchasers. Our investigation uncovered a building where one condo owner claimed Perry used her name and credit history to borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars and then defaulted which ruined her credit record.

While the state does know where some sex offenders are working, they are not required to make that information available to the public - unless you ask for it. We found out where dozens of sex offenders are working in the Chicago area after filing a Freedom of Information request with the Illinois State police. Their places of employment included: Rainforest Cafe, Wrigley Field, the Chicago Symphony and several big name hotel and fast food restaurants.

County Dentists: While the County considered abolishing its dental clinics for the uninsured, we found it failed to bill more than a million and half dollars that could have kept the clinic open. After our investigation, the clinics were re-opened.

County Overtime: Our investigation uncovered massive overtime bills by the County's pharmacists. Many doubled and even tripled their salaries. One individual's overtime salary was so excessive, she would have had to work 15 hours a day 7 days a week for an entire year. The County launched an investigation after our report.

Dec. 2006

Paper shredder injuries follow up: We talk to an office supply company who may have a possible solution to prevent this type of injury.

November 2006

Paper shredder injuries follow up: We were the first to report on several nationwide cases of children whose hands were injured in their parents' paper shredders at home. We examine the EXHIBIT A continued...

shredding mechanism and various shredder models to see how this could happen. Now, more victims are coming forward.

Credit Card Dumping: We examine how your bank account information is being bought and sold on the internet without your knowledge. We take a look at who's using it, how credit card dumping affects your finances and how it can lead to identity theft. The night this story aired, we had a group of U S Secret Service agents in our news room answer viewer questions via the web.

MySpace/ sexual predators: We identified several Illinois sex offenders who have MySpace accounts and may be chatting with your children. The night this story aired, we had several members of the Illinois Attorney General's Internet Crimes against Children task force in the news room to answer viewer questions online.

September 2006

More Priceline Locksmith folo: Now the state dept of professional licensing and regulation files charges against this same company, following our investigation.

March 2006

Priceline Locksmith folo: In response to our investigation of a locksmith scam, Chicago's Consumer Affairs department files charges against the company not once - but twice. Consumers who thought they were calling a local locksmith were not doing so. When we checked the addresses in the phone book for this business, we didn't find a locksmith at any of them. Instead we found a pizza parlor, nail salon and tequila lounge. The local phone calls were transferred to a New York City phone number. Consumers not only complained of receiving poor service but of being overcharged as well.

February 2006

Handicap Parking: Following up on a viewer tip, Fox News Chicago catches non-disabled Blue Cross- Blue Shield Insurance workers using handicap parking placards to find good street parking outside their downtown office building. We show them hanging up the placard in their car and walking in to the building on their own.

Car title loans: Consumer experts say it's the new pay day loan scam. If you need cash now, use your car title to take a loan in minutes. The catch is you have to pay it back at a very high interest rate and a balloon payment. We show you the pros and cons of this type of loan.

November 2005

Bleached bills: Fox News Chicago I-team showed the newest way criminals are counterfeiting money and how you can spot it. All it takes is a household cleaner to bleach a five dollar bill bland and a computer laser printer to reprint it as hundred dollar bill.

Balcony injuries: If you think your balcony is safe just because it has a sturdy railing, think again. Fox News Chicago investigated how small children were being seriously injured after crawling through gaps in balcony railings and falling to the ground.

Mortgage Fraud Scam Artist Arrested: A local man is arrested several months after a Fox News Chicago investigation into a mortgage scam. Burnyss Perry is accused of using a south side apartment building to steal one-point four million dollars from mortgage companies. Investigators say Perry misled lenders with false appraisals and phony straw purchasers. Our investigation uncovered a building where one condo owner claimed Perry used her name and credit history to borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars and then defaulted which ruined her credit record.
